CHE Hacks is a hackathon which teaches high school students how to program. CHE Hacks will open the door to programming for 150 mostly from the New Jersey and Pennsylvania region by providing skilled mentors and detailed workshops.

Why sponsor?

The beginners who come to learn to code at CHE Hacks will be among the developers of tomorrow. By sending mentors and holding workshops, your company can introduce students to programming using your technologies. There's nothing quite as special as that moment when you first learned how to code. At CHE Hacks, you can make your company part of that moment for many participants.

Looking for more advanced participants? We'll have plenty of them as well.
